A clear view of the battlefields

From Fort Sumter to Appomattox, A Battlefield Atlas of the Civil War, by Craig L. Symonds, explains the principal campaigns of the Civil War and all the major battles in a lively text keyed to 45 full-page two-color maps. The author is a Civil War historian at the U.S. Naval Academy. The maps have been drawn by William J. Clipson, of the U.S. Naval Academy who has more than twenty years' experience in cartographic design.

"For one who teaches a course on the Civil War this book is most appealing"

—The Journal of Southern History

The result is a clear, concise, and authoritative volume useful to student and amateur alike: indeed to anyone who simply wants to know what happened and to understand why.

Clear maps of each Civil War battle. Ideal for classroom use.

The author explores the personalities of the commanders on each side and explains the rationale behind their battlefield decisions. The strengths of each side, the losses suffered, and the strategic consequences of the battles are detailed.

An exciting and comprehensive military history that features:

- 45 two-color maps, covering all the major Civil War battles.
- Union forces in blue, Confederate in black; geographical details are screened back to highlight the critical military positions and movements.
- Special railroad map of the Civil War.
- Compact, portable 7"×10" size, ideal for walking tours.
- Maps are all full page for maximum legibility.

Please enclose $15.95 for A Battlefield Atlas of the Civil War plus $3.00 to cover shipping and handling. (Maryland residents add 5% sales tax.) Call (301) 659-0220 for discount rates and free catalog.
